COMPANY HOUSE RULES

The House Rules are standards of conduct, which Kikiaola Construction Company expects its employees to observe and maintain. They are the most important rules of any organization of business. These rules are designated to protect the employee, provide for their safety and to guide them in their relationship with the Company and their fellow employees. Rules like these are meant to provide guidelines to employees of expected conduct and are not intended to unnecessarily inhibit personal behavior. These rules are not intended to cover all possible discipline situations and will be revised from time to time as needed.

All employees are expected to conduct themselves accordingly and any violation of the following shall subject an employee to appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including discharge, depending upon the severity of the violation and the employee's longevity, performance and prior disciplinary record:

- 1) Violation of Company or Department of Safety Rules and Regulations, including fire and civil defense rules.
- 2) Insubordination, refusal to obey instructions, disregard of any order or directive to perform work as assigned or required, or willful slow downs or neglect of duty. (Should an employee disagree with an order or directive, employee should do as instructed and challenge it later, using proper procedures, unless the employee believes that safety to others, or to themselves, may be compromised by following the orders.)
- 3) Fighting, threatening, or engaging in any act of physical aggression, or any attempt or threat to engage in a fight or provoke a fight; use of discourteous, abusive or profane language directed at another employee, guest, vendor, customer or others; or deliberately inflicting injury to one's self.

- 5) Negligence, carelessness or misuse of Company or other's vehicles, equipment or property that results in loss, damage, waste or destruction to same and/or withholding knowledge of other employees or others involved in such activities or use of Company vehicles, equipment, materials or facilities, for purposes other than Company business without permission (including non-approved telephone, computer, or similar devices).
- 6) Failure to report loss, damage, breakage or breakdown of Company property; failure to report immediately any job related injury, illness or accident to management; or failure to report any traffic violations, citations or accidents involving Company vehicles or equipment.

If an employee relies on another person for reporting, the employee remains responsible for that report. In case of sickness, notice should be given as soon as possible before the start of work, except in the case of emergency of such a nature that prevents the employee from giving immediate notice. Any unreported or unexcused absence for three (3) consecutive workdays shall be considered a quit without notice.
- 9) Immoral conduct or indecency on Company premises or worksites; violating the Company's sexual harassment policy; engaging in any form of harassment, intimidation or coercion (whether another employee, guest, vendor or other); failure to abide by standards of common decency and personal conduct at any time or place which adversely impacts upon an employee's relationship with their job, fellow workers, guests, vendors, supervisors and/or others, which may be deemed as being detrimental to the Company's reputation and/or goodwill in the community.
